Yes, I think that makes sense. I think we'll be back in the office next week and can discuss then whether it makes sense to postpone a week or so, or whether we should wait longer.

I am also (obviously) delayed in getting you the additional sediment sampling locations. I was not in the office Friday, and did not anticipate on Thursday how bad this storm would be, so did not bring home my work computer (through which I can get access to the LAN from home) or lots of paperwork. I'm doing what I can this week, but am limited.

Should we consider postponing this?
